Screen Plugin

I created the "Screen" plugin. The Screen plugin is a plugin that, when enabled, puts a dark haze over the Runelite client. This haze makes the game look dimmer. When toggled off, the haze is removed and the game goes back to looking normal. When the runelite client is loaded up, the plugin is off. I have it functioning in this way because I think the majority of players would not want this on all the time.

So you might be thinking that this plugin is useless, but before we jump to conclusions, allow me to explain the vision behind it. There is one primary use to this plugin. The primary use is a screen darkener. Brightness may not be an issue for users on laptops, since they can just manually lower their laptop brightness. Some PC players however, may not be able to lower their monitor brightness on the fly. This plugin lets them lower their brightness quickly and easily. I am one of these PC players. I do not play Runelite regularly, but if I did, I would have this on.

Another reason I made this plugin is because it sounded simple in my head. I wanted to write a simple plugin since this was a pretty unique project. Unique as in I have not done something similar to this before. Additionally, I did not want to pick a plugin that already existed. I felt like this plugin was a good combination of both. It sounded simple to make, and I thought there was no way it existed in Runelite. From my research, I was correct in that it did not exist. I used this website https://runelite.net/plugin-hub/, to see if I could find anything that resembled it.
